JOSEPH FIENNES
Breakthrough
Breast Cancer

"My mother (actor and painter Julia Fiennes) died in 1997 after a battle with breast cancer, and there was one clarity I was going to get behind, it was this one."

"Anyone who has encountered breast cancer, whether it's a family member, friend or youself, is faced with a huge, uphill, emotional struggle. But charities such as Breakthrough Breast Cancer help take some of the fear out of the word,
'cancer' and give people hope."

"I've worked with them since around 2009 and have been privileged to meet Professor Alan Ashworth, Director of the Breakthrough Breast Cancer Research Centre, which is next to the Royal Marsden Hospital in London, where my mother was treated. They're making advances in treatment and conducting the Breakthrough Generations Study of 100,000 women over the next 50 years to research the causes – to give us a greater chance of creating a future free from the fear of breast cancer."

GOING FOR THE BIG TIME

An official wardrobe for the 2009 Q&A Awards, Raymond West cemented its long-standing connection with the music world. Here, meet four of the most exceptional young singers in the biz—each of them modeling the brand's brand new limited-edition Proclaim'er

GEORGE CRAIG

Tired of when I was 12 and picked up a guitar that I had to be on stage." One look at George Craig—the introversive, mop-toped, always-smiling, good-looking former of One Night Only—and you can absolutely believe it. In the next couple of years the front has grown from village blues and is still following its own course and making joy. "The best is together, it's organic," says George. "We never set out to be big success writing big songs." But that's where they're at now, selling his debut album, Don't Be One, all of what George describes as "fun, hedonist, authentic" and is pointing her schedule ahead of them. Unlike the others in the band, George is not technically a songwriter—he's only moved to Yorkshire from Essex when he was 16. But he is a hard worker and he's bright as the thought of what the next few days hold. "We're playing the Leeds Festival in June, and we'll be there to perform on Sunday night is the gig we've been dreaming about. We've been going there since we were kids and we want always, Ma, I want you on that stage!"—and now it's time to go. "But that, you want to see the beginning for One Night Only."

YOUTUBERS: PIXIMOO

The Dynamic Duo

Make-up maestros turned vlogging superstars - the Piximoo sisters really are doing it for themselves

When we want to get our hands, we channel our man. She has not only mastered the art of the hairbrush, she has mastered the art of the hairbrush.

When my husband is annoying me, I get a little bit of my hairbrush. I explain it by saying, 'I get a little bit of my hairbrush.'

I want to give myself a high five daily," exclaims Nina Chapman - and we can't blame her if we were behind the UK's biggest beauty vlog, well be doing the same. The 30-year-old make-up guru's road to success began in 2010 when she launched YouTube channel Piximoo, sharing her beauty expertise alongside younger sister Nicola, 28.

Today, Chapman's YouTube channel has been credited to more than 100 million (clocking up about 10 million views and over 2 million subscribers), gained 1.1 million combined Instagram followers and they've built a vast international make-up look business, Pixi Techniques.

Without question, Piximoo are an undoubted source of inspiration to women the world over, but who do they admire? "Female bosses who aren't afraid to take risks," says Nicola. "There are lots of amazing women from big brands who have really championed and supported us, like George Dawson at Estée Lauder," explains Nina. For the sisters, success is all about supporting one another: "The majority of women and girls' girls," says Nicola. "We look after and support each other and there's no competition, which we love."

When they're not teaching to all time to perfect the latest make-up trends and how to be business, Piximoo are busy juggling over their own idols. "I love DJ Koolhaq," says Nina. "The way she deals with people on social media is utterly brilliant. She's so smart and shuts any haters down. She's awesome."
